

Nominations for the Editorial Board of the Journal of Social Policy (July 2012)

		X
	Interests and experience	Please vote for THREE ONLY
Candidate: Nasar Meer, Reader in Sociology School of Arts and Social Sciences Northumbria University	I would like to put myself forward for the editorial boards of both JSP and SPS (on the understanding that if successful I would only join one). I am a Reader in Sociology at Northumbria University, and my research focuses mainly the following three clusters: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Race and Ethnicity in a comparative context, especially processes of racialization and anti-discrimination policy 2. Identity and Citizenship, especially claims-making and multi-level governance in plural societies 3. Religion and Secularism, specifically the incorporation/non-incorporation of Islam in Europe I am an active editorial board member of the journals Sociology; Ethnicities; Sociological Research On-line; International Journal of Science and Technology, and a co-editor of the Palgrave Book Series on the Politics of Identity and Citizenship.
Candidate: Dr Jenny Phillimore, Senior Lecturer, Institute of Applied Social Studies and Third Sector Research Centre, Inaugural Director of the Institute for Research into Superdiversity (2013), University of Birmingham.	Expertise: new migration and access to social welfare, integration, social cohesion, superdiversity, small-scale civil society activity and innovative research methods. Adviser to Home Office and CLG on impacts of migration and social cohesion. Reviewing experience: reviewer for ESRC, Big Lottery, Leverhulme, Nuffield Foundation, Temple Books, Palgrave MacMillan, Policy Press, Journal of Social Policy, Geoforum, Housing Studies, International Journal of Urban and Regional Studies and Urban Studies Research experience: over 50 research projects funded by EU, ESRC, AHRC, Nuffield Foundation, Joseph Rowntree Foundation, HACT, Barrow Cadbury Trust, Home Office, CLG, Local authorities, Regional Development Agencies and others focusing on new migration, migrant settlement and access to welfare. Publications: twelve journal articles since 2006 in top ranking journals (i.e. Journal of Social Policy, Urban Studies, Social Policy and Society, Critical Social Policy, Policy and Politics), three books, and in excess of 60 other publications (book chapters, working papers, conference papers, consultancy reports, review articles).
Candidate: Julia Twigg, Professor of Social Policy and Sociology, School of Social Policy, Sociology and Social Research, University of Kent.	I would be interested in being on the Board for JSP if you have a vacancy for someone with my interests: ageing, health and social care. I have long been involved in the broad area of social policy since working at PSSRU, U of Kent in the eighties and SPRU, University of York, in the nineties. I currently teach on the core of our Social Policy degree here. My main interests are in informal care, carework, the role of embodiment in care and carework, and old age. I am on the Editorial Board of Ageing & Society, Journal of Aging Studies, International Journal of Ageing and Later Life. I would be interested in being on the Board for JSP if you have a vacancy for someone with my interests: ageing, health and social care.

	Interests and experience
Candidate: Nicola Yeates, Professor of Social Policy, Department of Social Policy and Criminology, Open University	I would bring much experience, enthusiasm and commitment to the editorial board of the Journal of Social Policy, working as part of a team to ensure the continuing success and reputation of this key SPA journal. Through my role as a member of editorial advisory boards in social policy, global studies and gender studies journals (e.g. Global Social Policy, Translocations: Irish Migration, 'Race' and Social Transformations Review; Irish Journal of Feminist Studies) that spans many years, I have accumulated experience and in-depth knowledge of editorial and reviewing processes, a good understanding of the kinds of issues involved and the importance of the quality of communication among editors, reviewers and authors. I would bring expertise across diverse areas of global and international social policy, in relation to care, labour, social security and migration in particular, complementing and extending that expertise which is already represented on the editorial board.	